ONLY WINNERS CAN SAVE WARSAW FROM AUSTRO-GERMANS

ARMIES STILL SURGE FROM THE SHORES OF GULF OF RIGA IN POLAND WHERE THE RUSSIANS HAVE BEEN DRIVEN.

ENGLAND GIVES UP ALL HOPE

German Statement Chronicles Sweeping Victories to Within Fifty Miles of Riga—Blanc, But Twenty Miles from Capital, Falls—Important Railway in Teutonic Hands.

London, July 20.—From the shores of the Gulf of Riga in the north to that part of southern Poland into which they drove the Russians from Galicia, the Austro-German armies still are surging forward and if Warsaw can be denied them it will be almost a miracle.

This seems to be the consensus of opinion even among those in England who heretofore have been hopeful that the Russians would turn and deliver a counter blow and news of the evacuation of the Polish capital followed by the triumphant entry of the Germans amid such scenes as were enacted at Przemyśl and Lemberg would come as no surprise.

The German official statement, beginning its recital at the northern tip of the eastern battle line, records the progress of the German troops to within 50 miles of Riga, then follows the great battle southward, chronicles further successes in the sector northeast of Warsaw, culminating in the capture of Ostrolenka, one of the fortresses designed to shield the city. Immediately southwest of the city and less than 20 miles from it, Blanc has fallen, and further south Croje; while German cavalry are astride the important railway from Radom to Lublin. The Lublin-Chelm railway still is in the hands of the Russians so far as is known but the town of Lublin either has been captured or is in danger of falling into the grip of the Austro-Germans, the Russian commander-in-chief having issued, through the civil governor, an order that in case of a retreat the male population is to attach itself to the retreating troops.

There has been a flash of British activity in Flanders without any appreciable change in the situation and the British public is far more interested in the South Wales strike, which by virtue of David Lloyd-George's flying visit to Cardiff seems to have been settled. It is understood that virtually all of the strikers' demands have been granted.

The Serbian armies are being re-equipped and reorganized, according to semi-official advices reaching London and soon will be in a position to resume the offensive.

Russian Statement.
Petrograd, via London, July 20.—The following official communication was issued today:
"The enemy's advance continued on Monday in the region of Riga and Shavli on the fronts of Grunhof-Zabor-Krupy."

"On the Trans-Niemen region the enemy made partial attacks against the trenches of one of our regiments northeast of Suwalki, near the village of Gluboki, which have been disputed since last Wednesday. The Russian forces, aided by numerous batteries, succeeded again in occupying certain trenches which we had captured from him the previous day."

"On the Narva there has been light fighting. Yesterday there were some advance guard engagements. Sunday the siege artillery from the fortress of Novogeorgievsk successfully bombarded the heads of the enemy's columns."

"Between the Vistula and the Bug the enemy yesterday carefully approached our new front. On the Bug the enemy's attacks in the Krylow section continue. In the region of Sokal the enemy has extended his forces slightly on the right bank of the Bug."

"On the Dniester after stubborn fighting we captured yesterday 500 prisoners and five machine guns."

SUMMARY OF WAR

The seemingly irresistible march of the Austro-German armies is winning for them town after town in Russian Poland and in other territory through which stretches the thousand-mile battle front in the east.

Two pivotal points in their drive in Poland have been turned by the Teutonic allies. Ostrolenka, a stronghold on the Narva river between the heads of the Vistula and the Bug, fifty-seven miles to the south of that town and thirty miles from Ivangorod, another of the great fortresses which the Polish army had held, have fallen, according to Berlin and Vienna.

How close the advance guards of the Austro-Germans have pressed toward Warsaw is indicated by the official statement of the Russian war office, which says that the guns of the fortress of Novogeorgievsk, nineteen miles north-west of the capital have shelled the heads of the oncoming columns.

All along the line from the Baltic to the region of Sokal, across the Bug river in Galicia, the Austro-Germans are falling back before vicious attacks or retreating voluntarily to new positions. Where the Russians are offering resistance the Germans and Austrians assert they are suffering defeat and thousands of prisoners and numerous guns have been captured by the Teutons.

Petrograd admits further advances for Russia's adversaries. The Russian army in the capture of trenches by them in the Suwalki region and the extension of the Austro-German lines on the right bank of the Bug.

MURDER RECORDS OF CHARLES BECKER

FORMER NEW YORK POLICE LIEUTENANT IS SENTENCED TO DIE JULY 28 FOR CONNECTION WITH DEATH OF ROSENTHAL.

REQUEST TO GRANT RESPITE

In Light of Certain Facts Now Disclosed for First Time Is Request Made—Will Apply to Supreme Justice for Trial With New Discovered Evidence.

New York, July 20.—Another effort to save the life of Charles Becker, the former New York police lieutenant who is sentenced to die July 28 for investigating the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, was made tonight when a 15,000-word statement prepared by Becker in the Sing Sing prison death house and said to contain new facts, was placed in the hands of Governor Whitman at Albany.

With the statement was a request that the governor grant the condemned man a respite "in the light of certain facts now disclosed for the first time." The publication of this statement here tonight followed the announcement by Martin T. Mantion of counsel for Becker that the latter document was an application would be made before a supreme court justice for a new trial for Becker on the ground of newly discovered evidence.

Becker's statement, done in his own handwriting, is a chronological history told in plain language of what he says were his dealings with Rosenthal and the others mentioned in the murder case. This communication was accompanied by a copy of the argument used by Bourke Cockran of Becker's counsel before United States Supreme Court Justice Hughes for a writ of error. The latter document was included in the documents sent to the governor in order that he might know the grounds on which Mr. Cockran sought a writ of error.

Sullivan's Name Brought In.

The name of the late Timothy D. Sullivan, at the time of the Rosenthal murder a state senator, is brought into Becker's statement at length. Becker claims Sullivan had intervened with the police in an effort to get permission for Rosenthal to leave the city and wanted to help Rosenthal.

Later, after Rosenthal's place was raided and the latter being angry, began publishing charges against Becker, Sullivan, according to the statement, called the police lieutenant in and said that Rosenthal must be induced to leave town because of an inquiry were started it might reach the public and cause a situation he wished to avoid. This was not long before the assassination of Rosenthal.

Becker says it is common report among him by Rose from the gamblers, to get Rosenthal away. Rosenthal refused the sum offered but consented to go for a larger sum. It is said that it was for this larger sum that he was shot at the Hotel Metropole when he was shot. Becker adds that if it could be shown that Rose had been entrusted with a sum of money to be given Rosenthal it would show a flood of light on the whole transaction and would explain the source of $1000 which Rose admittedly had been paid to the gamblers.

The statement is accompanied by a supplementary document, also framed by Becker, and really a part of his story, but revised somewhat by his attorneys. In the second statement the condemned man declares at one point that if he is to die he is as ready to meet his fate as he has any reason to think he ever will be. He adds that there is only one service that can be rendered him, and that is aid in finding evidence which will establish his innocence and continue.

"Although it involves the unprecedented (perhaps some would say preposterous) proceeding of asking his excellency, Charles S. Whitman, governor, to review the evidence and in some respects condemn the conduct of Honorable Charles S. Whitman, district attorney of New York county, in prosecuting an indictment of murder against me, nevertheless that

FEW MEN WALK OUT IN MACHINIST STRIKE

CALL FOR THOSE EMPLOYED IN REMINGTON ARMS PLANT BRINGS BUT 175.

CLAIM MISUNDERSTANDING AND ALL WILL BE OUT TODAY—Plans for Settlement.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 20.—The strike call issued for the machinists working in the plants of the Remington Arms and Ammunition company and four sub-contractors brought out today, according to the estimates of the labor leaders, in the neighborhood of 175 men. The manufacturers, through the president of the Bridgeport Manufacturers' association, said that exactly 28 men had walked out. The labor men admitted tonight that not a man had left work in the main plant of the Remington company at noon. They said that failure of the men to quit work was due to a misunderstanding but that they would not go to work tomorrow morning. They added that the night force of machinists at the Remington plant had failed to go to work tonight.

Thomas J. Savage, member of the executive board of the International Association of Machinists, said that 75 men were on the night force that quit and about 100 men in the shops of the sub-contractors had walked out. He also said a conference was in progress in New York tonight which might lead to a settlement of the difficulties. He refused to give any details of the conference in the absence of J. J. Keppeler, international vice president of the union, who left Bridgeport tonight with the expressed intention of attending a conference to settle a labor difficulty in the pulp mills of northern New York. He said he would return to Bridgeport late tonight or tomorrow.

Savage also said he had received information that Frank Pennings and J. P. Conlon, vice presidents of the machinists, were at present engaged in determining what factories in this country were making supplies for consumption by the Remington company, with the view of calling the machinists in these shops out on strike.

Organization of Y. M. B. L. at West Is a Big Event

West, July 20.—The West Young Men's Business League was organized here tonight at an enthusiastic meeting of the citizens held at Katy Park. Besides several local speakers, representatives of the Hillsboro were present and addressed the meeting.

Mrs. W. R. Lovell, for the Civic league, presided and the first vice president was responded to by Roy Christian, representing the young business men of West.

The organization was effected and the following officers elected: J. G. McInnes, president; L. D. Webster, secretary; J. H. Thomas, first vice president; Joe Urbanoski, second vice president; George D. Crow, treasurer.

Marvin Lovell of the Hillsboro, Y. M. B. L. and ex-mayor of that city, spoke. C. G. Dehman of Hillsboro was also a speaker. Indications, from the enthusiastic manner tonight, that the organization will be a live one.

Serious Rioting in Standard Oil Strike

New York, July 20.—Serious rioting occurred again tonight at the Constable Hook plant of the Standard Oil company at Bayonne, N. J., when several hundred of the 5,000 striking employees clashed with two hundred special officers.

The rioters apparently were trying to charge the oil works. The guards fired into the air. The strikers answered with a volley of shots and scattered. This was the second disorder of the day.

Texas Day Observed at Frisco Exposition

San Francisco, July 20.—Because women had been instrumental in the participation of Texas at the Panama Pacific exposition they were the chief figures today at the celebration of "Texas Day."

Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin, Tex., president of the general Federation of Women's Club, was the principal speaker. Mrs. Warren Galbraith, treasurer of the Texas county, responded to the presentation of a bronze plaque by the exposition officials.

Flood Conditions in Ohio Serious

Columbus, Ohio, July 20.—Reports received by Governor Willis tonight indicated that flood conditions in what is known as the Scioto march, southwest of Kenton, were still serious. Several hundred persons were reported marooned in school houses and a few two-story buildings with a limited food supply. Crop loss and property damage in this section is estimated at $1,000,000.

PRINCIPLES OF THE NOTE TO GERMANY READ TO THE CABINET

WILSON AND OFFICIAL FAMILY
DECIDE UPON GENERAL OUT-
LINE OF REPLY REGARDING AMERICAN RIGHTS ON THE HIGH SEAS.

SECURITY AS TO THE CONTENTS

Information Generally Negative in Character—Is Not an Ultimatum and No Threats Are Made as to Future Purposes of the United States—Has Air of Finality.

Washington, July 20.—President Wilson and his cabinet decided today on the general principles of the note to be sent to Germany within a few days renewing the efforts to secure for American citizens protection in their rights on the high seas.

The president read to his official family assembled for the first time in a month a draft answering the German government's note of July 8, which failed to grant the demands of the sinking of the Lusitania. The draft was complete. On its character and purposes there was unanimous agreement and Secretary Lansing was at work tonight putting in more precise language the ideas set forth.

Members of the cabinet generally preserved secrecy regarding the probable contents of the communication and the president cautioned against detailed speculation in advance of the publication of the document last night. The note was cabled abroad before the actual text is received in Berlin.

Such information as was obtainable concerning the nature of the note was of a negative character. Cabinet officers made it clear it would not be an ultimatum or make any threats as to the future purposes of the United States. At the same time they pointed out it would probably have an air of finality, curtailing the field of discussion and negotiation and placing squarely on Germany the responsibility for any actions that might subsequently endanger the friendly relations of the two countries.

Today's conference was devoted to an extent to a discussion what the American people really wanted the Washington government to say and do in the present crisis. So far as the cabinet officers could judge by public expression the nation had voiced an insistent desire that the honor and dignity of the United States be upheld in the correspondence with Germany but that course should be followed which would maintain peace.

Secretary Lansing said today only a partial report of what had occurred in the encounter between the British liner Orduna and a German submarine had reached the state department. An investigation has been instituted through the treasury department and a report is expected within a few days, but the dispatch of the note to Germany will not be delayed, it was of the president, on account of the Orduna case.

Mrs. Edward Bailey Located.
Fort Worth, July 20.—Mrs. Edward Bailey, widow of a Texan murdered and robbed near Ravenna, S. C., several months ago, was located here this morning through officers of the two states. She didn't know what had become of Bailey.

TAX BOARD TO AWAIT RETURN OF GOVERNOR

WILL NOT LEVY TAX RATE IN SPITE OF WIRE FROM FER-GUSON TO PROCEED.

Austin, July 20.—The state automatic tax board will not levy the tax rate until the return of Governor Ferguson to this city next Saturday. The meeting of the board was scheduled to take place today and notwithstanding the receipt of a telegram from Governor Ferguson to the board, to levy the tax according to rates and estimates already made by the comptroller's department, it was deemed advisable to wait until his return to Austin.

An informal meeting was held with Treasurer Edwards and Comptroller Terrell present and the tax rates were discussed. It seems not improbable at this time that the ad valorem rate instead of being placed at $2.50 cents per $100 valuation for revenue purposes will now be increased to 30 cents on the $100, giving the state the advantage of four mills on the estimated necessary revenue rate.

Under the law the tax rate must be levied to meet the requirements assumed by the state.

Gaffney Criticises German Conditions

Washington, July 20.—State department officials tonight took notice of a letter from T. St. John Gaffney, American consul general at Munich, in a New York newspaper comparing conditions in Germany to those in the allied countries in a manner decidedly unfavorable to the latter. Secretary Lansing made no comment but other officials said the department would decide later whether Gaffney's expressions were out of keeping with his position. Some time ago Gaffney's conduct brought him into a controversy with the American consul at Dresden and the state department transferred him to Munich.

Chicago Is After Both Conventions

Chicago, July 20.—Active work was begun today in the campaign to bring the next republican and democratic national conventions to Chicago. A committee composed of seven republicans, seven democrats and seven members of the Chicago Association of Commerce met to raise a guarantee fund of $100,000 to meet the expenses of each convention. Fred W. Uppham, chairman of the committee, said that by using the same building for both conventions the city could entertain both for about $160,000, thereby saving $40,000.

Rains in Western Texas Aids Crops

Fort Worth, July 20.—Rains today in many parts of West Texas put beyond damage corn and other feed crops and helped cotton. While no doubt had been complained of yet, reports to various agricultural and stock organizations here indicated that rain would have been needed again in a few days. Today's rains remove all danger for some time to come.

Rain at Vernon.
Vernon, July 20.—A hard rain today broke a long dry spell. The rain seemed to assure a bumper corn crop.

Separation Amendment Endorsed.
Bryan, July 20.—At an enthusiastic joint meeting of the alumni of the University and A. & M. held at Palestine Monday night the separation amendment was endorsed and all alumni of both institutions were asked to join in working for the success of said amendment at the polls.

But One American Ship Taken.
London, July 20.—From June 18 to June 30, twelve ships, only one of which was American, were taken into Kirkwall by British patrols. Of these only a portion of the cargo of one ship was ordered discharged for adjudication in a prize court.

The figures are not yet available, but unofficial records show a steady diminution in the number of seizures. Eleven hundred tons of barley on the Norwegian ship Whinlatta from New York for Copenhagen have been released. Consignments of copper ore, staves and tobacco on the F. J. Lisman have been ordered released.

The Danish steamer Gurre from Baltimore for Alborg has been taken into Kirkwall.

Carranza Troops Routed.
Laredo, July 20.—Carranza troops have been routed after several days' fighting with Villa forces between Paredon and Icamole, south of Monterey, according to unofficial though trustworthy advices received here tonight. The Carrancistas lost several hundred dead yesterday and today, it is said, in a battle near Villa Garcia, 23 miles south of Monterey. A strict censorship over military actions still is in effect here. Villa losses, according to meager information in Nuevo Laredo, are equally as heavy as those of the Carrancistas.

Communication from Rome.
Rome, via London, July 20.—The following official communication was issued today:
"On the Italian front our vigorous offensive resulted in progress yesterday, especially on the plateau of Carso, where we took 500 prisoners. Our troops dug in rapidly on the conquered positions and resisted counter attacks. The action continued throughout the night."

Rise in Petrograd Exchange.
London, July 20.—There was a remarkable rise today in exchange on Petrograd. The rate advanced to 131-2 rubles for 10 pounds. On the last exchange day, Thursday, the rate was 137-1-2.

ZAPATA LANDS A BLOW BY RETAKING MEXICO CAPITAL

ATTEMPTS AT RELIEF
DECLARED HOPELESS

BRIG. GEN. DEVOL OF AMERICAN
RED CROSS DISCOURAGED
OVER FAILURE.

Washington, July 20.—Brigadier-General Devol, general manager of the American Red Cross, returned from the Texas border today with the announcement that attempts to relieve famine and suffering among non-combatants in Mexico were hopeless under present conditions.

For six weeks General Devol directed relief work from Fort Sam Houston. He was thoroughly discouraged by the failure of the Mexican factional leaders to co-operate. The official statement from Red Cross headquarters tonight merely said it had been decided "that for the present much of the relief work must be postponed."

The understanding here is that the society will abandon its activities until the United States government has further developed its Mexican policy. "There is no outlook for relief in Mexico through the American Red Cross under present conditions," said General Devol, "although reports from all over Mexico indicate the necessity of distribution of supplies throughout the country. The condition of the military authorities in charge make it practically impossible to relieve the people."

Monterey has closed its relief work with the incoming crops and will need no food for an indefinite period. Saltillo needs food, but relief shipments have been denied entry by the governor of the state. Mexico City has been cut off by interrupted rail service. We are unlikely to ship any more food to Monclova, after the two carloads ready to start today from Piedras Negras have gone. The acting governor at Piedras Negras said he would allow the two carloads to go through.

"Neither Carranza nor Villa authorities are co-operating in relief work," General Devol said. "The military authorities on either side will not permit purchase of food of any kind within their territories. When the Monclova situation was acute we could buy relief supplies on the Mexican side cheaper than in the United States. We found that while it would cost $4c a bushel for corn on the American side, we could get it at Sabine on the Monclova line at 36c a bushel, but the military authorities would not allow its sale and we had to buy at the higher price on this side of the border. The authorities said they needed it all for military purposes, but at this time time Mexico was exporting more corn and beans."

"When General Hernandez put an embargo on the sale of food supplies in his territory he said he would stop exportations of food from Mexico. Yet he has permitted the exportation to go on into the United States."

Discussed at Cabinet Meeting.
At the cabinet meeting today the unfortunate Mexican situation was discussed briefly. Some move on the part of the United States is expected in the near future.

American Consul General Shanklin, who is now at Vera Cruz, returning to Washington from Mexico City, is expected to give considerable light on the exact status of affairs in the republic when he arrives next week.

Confidentially received today of the capture of Naco by the Carranza troops yesterday. The attack upon Naco, Villa's agents here claimed, was a violation of the border agreement negotiated at the instance of Major General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army. War department officials indicated, however, that so long as no one on the American side had been injured, the agreement had not been violated.

Late reports indicate that Maytorena is massing forces at Nogales to meet an attack from General Calles and Colonel Cardenas at the head of the invading Carranza forces.

The state department is advised in a telegram dated July 19 from Eagle Pass that communication with Torreón was reopened on the 18th. There is telegraphic communication between Piedras Negras and Saltillo. Las Vacas, Coahuila, was reported recaptured by Villa forces on the 18th. Reports from Paredon indicated that Carranza forces are in control of that section and that small skirmishes are occurring daily between them and Monterey.

Advices from the west coast state that Carranza reports have been received from the Yaqui valley.

The Carranza agency here received advices tonight from Vera Cruz which made no mention of the change at Mexico City, but declared that there had arrived at Vera Cruz under strong military escort, $30,000,000 in gold and silver bullion bars, the property of foreign-owned mining corporations. Carranza, it was stated, had been accompanied by a guard from Pachuca and would be shipped immediately to New York.

Reports from Vera Cruz received here tonight indicated that Carranza city again has been isolated from the outside world. Officials at Vera Cruz reported they had been unable to communicate with the capital since early in the day and they cable apparently had been cut out of commission.

COMES AS SURPRISE TO WASH- INGTON AND BOTH AGENCIES. SUSPECTED ARMY, DEFEATED AND HARRASSED, WAS ON RE- TREAT.

SITUATION AGAIN DESPERATE

Railroad Communication Broken.
Evacuation of City Is Complete.
Discussed at Cabinet Meeting.
Zapatas Setting Up a Government in City.

Washington, July 20.—Dispatches to the state department from Mexico City late today announced that Zapata forces reoccupied the capital yesterday, following the evacuation by the Carranza army under General Gonzales.

Zapata officials were said to have resumed full control of the city from which they were driven ten days ago by Gonzales, who has gone northward to meet an advancing Villa force. This unexpected development came as a surprise not only to officials of the Washington government but to both the Mexican agencies. It had been supposed that the Zapata army, defeated and harassed on retreat, was operating along the railroad to Vera Cruz waiting an opportunity to form a junction with the Villa column approaching from the north.

No word has been received of the whereabouts of General Gonzales since he quit the capital. News of a battle near Pachuca, already reached by Villa's men, is hourly expected and may already have occurred. Other reports to the state department during the day said that railway communication between Vera Cruz and Mexico City was suspended "on account of the present military operations." A private message from a responsible source received today pictured the situation as desperate.

A state department announcement tonight, however, received today in authority at Mexico City said:

"The department is in receipt of advices dated about noon on the 19th from Mexico City stating that the evacuation of the city is complete. The Zapatas occupied the city on the afternoon of the 18th and on the 19th appointed some authorities. They are, therefore, in full power and indicate a desire to maintain order."

Any Seizure of Cotton to be Contested by the U. S.

Washington, July 20.—Any decision by a British prize court that would condemn and confiscate without payment cotton of American ownership destined to a neutral country or even to private consignee in Germany, Austria or Turkey would be contested by the United States government. Cotton contraband of war, the state department holds that under international law it is not subject to confiscation by the belligerents. The British contraband goods such as cotton of neutral ownership if destined for Germany and without a pass, must be discharged in a British port, but that contraband goods now under detention in Great Britain shall be restored to the owner upon such terms as the prize court deems just. The same rule applies to cargoes sent to other than German ports but with an enemy destination eventually.

These provisions, aside from the general principles of international law, are regarded by state department officials as sufficiently safeguarding the American ownership of their goods. It is said at the department and also at the British embassy, however, that there is no record of ships carrying unmixd cargoes of cotton of American ownership without suspicion of association with the contraband goods now under detention in Great Britain.

In Your Wisdom Lies Your Baby's Health

A drowsy, calm day—a still, sleepy night—that's what summer means to babies whose mothers have learned full share of the new wisdom about babies. In the old days our babies passed from us in summer one in three. But doctors and scientists have worked for many years—and now mothers know that it isn't always the fault of Providence when the baby's sick—that a mother can help to keep her baby well. And wise mothers know that the baby's food is most important of all—that mother's milk is best—and that if the baby can't have that—the nearest thing to it is

Nestlé's Food

Don't try to put your baby off with cow's milk. You can't tell whether the cow is healthy—or the dairy clean—whether the cow's milk you're getting carries sickness—even consumption. And if you can't—you do not know how to modify the heavy parts of cow's milk that are intended for a calf's four stomachs.

It's all done for you in Nestlé's—the healthy insected cow—the protection against germs—the modifying of the heavy parts—the addition of the things your baby needs and the calf doesn't.

Even the frailest baby can digest Nestlé's. Cold water and one minute's boiling prepares it. Baby will thrive on it as the babies of three generations have done.

FARMER IS KILLED IN FAMILY BATTLE

DAN COCHRAN STABBED TO
DEATH AND MRS. W. H. PACK
SERIOUSLY INJURED.

MANY PERSONS ARE ENGAGED

J. S. Pack, Father of Man Alleged to Have Done Killing, Gives His Version in the County Jail.

In a free-for-all fight between members of the Cochran and Pack families of the Concord community late yesterday afternoon, Dan Cochran, farmer, 35 years old, was killed when he was stabbed through the heart supposedly by W. H. Pack, and Mrs. W. H. Pack received a painful if not serious injuries when she was struck across the breast and abdomen with the breast-yoke of a cultivator by Dan Cochran.

The affair was the result of disagreement of several months standing between Cochran and J. S. Pack, from whom Cochran sub-rented, and the climax followed yesterday when Cochran's 12-year-old son sought to turn some of Pack's stock out of a pasture in which Pack had placed them, a quarrel between Cochran and Pack over the incident, and the advent of Cochran's father, Rufe Cochran, a prominent farmer of that section, and his brothers, Will and John Cochran, also farmers of that neighborhood, to reinforce their son and brother in his contention against the Packs.

Immediately after the killing J. S. Pack, father of the man who is alleged to have done the killing, telephoned the sheriff's office that a killing had taken place at his home and asking that the officers come for him and his son. Sheriff S. E. Fleming and Deputies Fred Oliver and Joe Roberts went out immediately and brought the two men to town and placed them in the county jail, pending a preliminary hearing.

At the jail last night J. S. Pack gave his version of the affair practically as follows. Cochran has been sub-renting land from him all the year and they have several disagreements over matters relating to occupation of certain parts of the premises and other things. Nothing serious had developed, however, until yesterday. Allegedly Pack placed some stock in a small pasture on the place and Cochran sent his 12-year-old son to turn them out. Mrs. Pack intervened and forbade the boy performing the task to which his father had assigned him. Cochran then came up to the house and sent the boy in to call Pack out, but it happened that Pack was down at a little blacksmith shop near the house where he keeps his farming tools in repair.

Quarrel Early in Day.

The men had a quarrel in which Cochran is said to have employed profanity and made threats. Cochran was armed with an open knife at the time, Pack said.

Later in the afternoon, around 6 o'clock, Pack continued, Cochran accompanied by his father and two brothers rode up to the Pack shop in a hurry and the elder Cochran began upbraiding the elder Pack for not having stopped the trouble without letting it come to such a state as it had assumed. Both of the older men are members of the Woodmen of the World and Pack began to remonstrate with the elder Cochran and told him that he was not true to his obligations to him as a fellow sovereign in taking up the fight on him. About that time W. H. Pack, the son, reached out his hand to shake hands with the elder Cochran when Dan Cochran struck young Pack with a rock, hitting him on the right elbow and slightly scratching it. Another rock was directed at the head of the elder Pack, but the latter saw it coming and dodged, the rock merely knocking his hat off.

As the elder Pack stooped over he picked up a blunderbuss hammer lying nearby and struck at Cochran. The elder Cochran snatched the hammer from the elder Pack and the younger Pack in turn wrested the weapon from the elder Cochran and held it over the head of the elder Pack. The elder Pack, who was also armed with a knife, then struck the elder Cochran on the forehead with the knife, inflicting a deep wound. When his wife fell the younger Pack drove a knife into Dan Cochran's heart and the latter walked about ten feet and fell dying ten minutes later. Mrs. J. S. Pack, mother of the young man who did the killing, also sustained injuries in the meantime, and one or two of her daughters, who were also assisting in the defense of their father and brother, were struck, but their injuries were inconsequential. It is now believed that the elder Mrs. Pack is seriously injured, but it is not known whether she will recover. The elder Mott, who was called in immediately, had been unable to tell definitely when the men left home to come to jail.

Mrs. Pack Injured.

Fear was expressed that the younger Mrs. Pack's injuries might be serious, as she is in a delicate condition, but it is not thought they are likely to prove fatal. The elder Mrs. Pack faintly when the officers left with her husband and son to bring them to jail. Cochran's body was viewed by Justice J. J. Padgett, after which it was turned over to the family to be prepared for burial. The funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

J. S. Pack is about 55 years old, was born in DeKalb county, Tennessee, came to Texas many years ago, lived for a time in Bell county, and for the past twenty years has been a resident of McLennan county. He lived near Moody for many years and was formerly in the Concord community for the past six years. He owns a farm in that neighborhood but it is occupied by his son-in-law and the latter's father. He has a brother living near Moody. He says he has never had any previous trouble.

Help These Boys Up the Ladder of Success

Fred Weber Millard Moore Talley Byers Elliott Heims Gardiner Smith Lynton R. Boggess
Seven More Bright Boys Wanted Between 10 and 14 Years. Apply to Mr. Duncan at 8:30 a.m.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

To help the above boys advance themselves and gain a knowledge of the gas business, and to interest more Waco citizens in the use of natural gas, we will, beginning Monday, July 19, employ these boys as representatives of our company.

Each will be given a district in the city. Each will be given a supply of cards.

The boys will sign the cards given them and each will leave a card at every house in his district.

When one of the cards left at your house is brought to our office and a purchase of stove, water heater, or other appliance made, or contract is made for gas service, the boy who signs his name will receive a CASH COMMISSION according to the schedule given below.

This CASH COMMISSION will also be given the boy when request is made on the reverse side of the card to have one of our regular representatives call, provided our representative makes a sale or closes a contract.

Each boy must keep in his special district. All sales made through the cards will be credited to the boy having charge of the district in which the person representing the card lives.

These Cash Commissions Will Start a Nice Bank Account

The following commissions are going to be paid boys working on our school salesman plan for purchases made or gas service contract signed by any party delivering the boy's card to the Company's office at the time purchase or gas service contract is made:

Cooking stoves costing up to and including $10.00.....	50c
Costing more than $10.00 and up to and including $15.00.....	75c
Costing more than $15.00 and up to and including $25.00.....	$1.00
Costing more than $25.00.....	$1.50

KATY DIDN'T RAISE RATES, CRUSH TELLS LEAGUE DIRECTORS

PROMINENT RAILROAD MEN VISIT MEETING—INTERESTING SESSION OF DIRECTORS.

Statements that the Katy road or he himself was responsible for the raise of rates for one-day trade trips by all Texas railroads were without foundation, was the statement of W. G. Crush, general passenger agent of the M. K. & T., at the meeting of the directors of the Young Men's Business League last night. Mr. Crush stated that the principal object of his visit was to meet the directors of the league and get himself right, in view of assertions that had been made verbally and through the press that he himself was responsible for the raise from $1 to $1.50 of rates for one-day trade trips by all Texas railroads, and other assertions that the Katy had taken the lead in raising the rates. Other prominent officials of the Katy present were J. F. Garvin of Dallas, general manager of the Waco division, and R. P. Buckingham, commercial agent here. The tenure of the speeches by Mr. Crush, Mr. Garvin and Mr. Evans was conciliatory, and to the effect that any animosity that might have developed in the fight of the league for a restoration of the $1 rate on trade trips was to be forgotten.

The coming of the railroad men prolonged the session so late as to prevent the directors from going to West to assist in organizing a Y. M. B. L. there. It was planned to meet at 7:30, but the business hurriedly and late. It was 8:45 when the railroad men left the hall, and a telephone call to West brought the information that the meeting there would be over before the league leaders could get there. E. C. Blomeyer talked over the phone with J. E. McGhee of West, one of the leaders of the movement to organize a Y. M. B. L. there after the pattern of the Waco Y. M. B. L. Mr. McGhee stated that the league had been organized with a good list of officers and members, and that the Waco Y. M. B. L. would be expected at some later date to initiate the young league into the mysteries of Y. M. B. L. work.

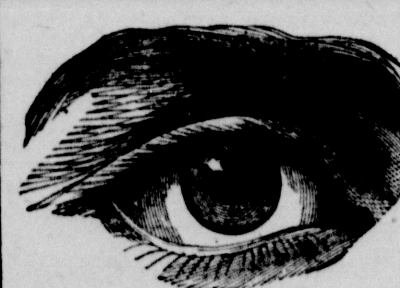

Crush Respects Y. M. B. L. "I have great respect for any organization that goes out and gets what it goes after," said Mr. Crush, following a statement from W. H. Hoffmann that the fight of the league for the $1 rate had been made in the interest of the city, and that now, since the desired result had been achieved, the league felt no animosity toward any of the roads. "I have more respect for the Waco Y. M. B. L. now than ever," continued Mr. Crush, "because you got what you went after."

"My chief motive in coming up here tonight was to meet the directors of the Y. M. B. L. and set myself straight in view of assertions that have been made verbally and through the press that I had been responsible for the raising of the trade excursion rate by the railroads of Texas," said Mr. Crush. "It has been alleged that I alone was responsible. If that were correct you would be paying me unconsciously a very high compliment, assuming that I have the ability to run not only my own but all the roads in Texas. At that time I thought the roads were entitled to the $1.50 rate, and I still think so, but I couldn't influence others to stay with me. The Young Men's Business League was too strong for me."

"If you assume that I was responsible for the $1.50 rate you must assume that I was responsible for the $1 rate," he said, following with a statement that the Katy passenger department for every day last month showed a loss from last year's receipts of $2900. "When this thing started," said Mr. Crush, "I told Mr. Crawford that I would not and could not lower the rates, but that other authorities could, and they did. I did not double cross Waco, as has been charged in some statements coming to my ears. I defy anyone to point out a single instance in which I have not acted square with Waco."

Not for Larger Cities. Mr. Crush also refuted charges that the raise in rates was made to benefit the larger cities in discrimination against the smaller cities, stating that the raise was fought vigorously by the Dallas trade league. Mr. Crush stated that the controversy had hurt him personally, expressing his high regard for Waco. Mr. Crush stated that in a conference with President Sanger of the Cotton Palace yesterday he had offered to do anything in his power for the Cotton Palace. This offer, said Mr. Crush, was based on selfish reasons, the only reasons which can be accepted in business.

"If the Cotton Palace is a failure, we are a failure," said Mr. Crush. "Let us work with this in view. When you think the Katy is not square, wire me and I will come down and we will get around this table and thresh it out. We will get along a lot better this way. We want your support, so we will treat you right. When you think the Katy is not square, don't parade it through the streets, but let us know. I am too old to double cross anyone," continued Mr. Crush. "Twenty years ago I might have tried it. I wanted you to hear my side of the matter. The Katy did not first advocate the $1.50 rate, but after it was proposed we made a great fight for it."

Crawford Makes Statement.

W. V. Crawford denied that any attempt had been made to go over Mr. Crush's head in the rate fight, referring especially to the recent visit here of W. A. Webb, vice president and general manager of the road, during which he held a conference with several Y. M. B. L. men. Mr. Crawford stated that the department of the league did nothing that would hurt the freight department, and that these three men had grown personal in the controversy. He took exception to newspaper statements, declaring them unfair.

Forrest Goodman and W. W. Woodson complimented Mr. Crush on his frankness with the league directors, and expressed the belief that all animosity would be forgotten. His department will be glad to cooperate with the Y. M. B. L. and Waco, was the statement of J. F. Garvin, general freight agent of the Katy, who followed Mr. Crush on the floor. He said his interest in the matter had been aroused because he didn't want the passenger department of the league to do anything that would hurt the freight department. He said that he would be glad to come to Waco at any time that his assistance might be desired by the Y. M. B. L.

Superintendent J. W. Evers, whose home is in Waco, followed Mr. Garvin, stating that he was for Waco first, last and all the time. He said he hoped to have the pleasure of handling a number of Y. M. B. L. trains under the new rates.

Berry New Treasurer. The resignation of Lewis Hart as treasurer of the league was accepted by R. H. Berry was elected to succeed him. Mr. Hart gave pressing business as the reason for his resignation.

Twelve teams working yesterday delivered 77 of the 133 tickets for the four trade trips signed for in April, according to the report of Mr. J. H. Traut, chairman of the central committee. Mr. Traut reported that 30 of the signers remained to be seen, and that cash for 17 of the tickets was in the hands of the committee. Further details of the Tyler trip tomorrow were discussed. A band will be taken on the trip.

Unfair Census Reports. Unfair rating of Waco in published census reports was brought to the attention of the league by W. V. Crawford, who stated that in the last reports of the census bureau Waco received credit for only about half of her actual population. Mr. Crawford said that revised reports would be made by special representatives of the department if requested by the league. Upon his motion that a committee be named to take the matter up with the census bureau, President Hutchinson appointed the publicity committee to take charge of the matter. Mr. Crawford is chairman of this committee.

The proposal to take up the matter of having the early morning interurban out of Dallas carry regular mail was made by W. V. Crawford, who stated that a resolution to the postmaster general would probably have the desired effect. President Hutchinson named the transportation committee, E. C. Blomeyer chairman, to prepare the resolution and report at the next meeting of the directors.

A statewide meeting during the Cotton Palace to launch a movement to induce congress to provide the country with an adequate merchant marine was the decision of the directors as a result of the discussion that followed the introduction of a resolution by W. W. Woodson. This resolution was to have been introduced at the regular meeting of the league last week, but on account of the absence of Mr. Woodson this was not done. The resolution will be presented for the approval of the general membership of the league at the general meeting next month. Mr. Woodson suggested an independent merchant marine subsidized by the government in the same manner as that of Germany and Great Britain. He suggested that the co-operation of the governor of the state be secured to induce him to call a conference of the governors of the southern states to consider the matter. A committee to handle the arrangements for the state meeting during the Cotton Palace will be named by President Hutchinson at a later date.

No Trouble to Keep Skin Free From Hairs

(The Modern Beauty.) There is no need for any woman to contenance superfluous hairs, because with a paste made by mixing some powdered talcum with water it is easy to get rid of them. The paste is applied for 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This treatment will rid the skin of hair without leaving a blemish, but care should be taken to see that you get real talcum.

Jose Inez Salazar Who Broke Jail Is Taken Near Palomas

El Paso, July 20.—Jose Inez Salazar, the Mexican general who escaped from jail at Albuquerque last fall, was arrested by United States customs inspectors on the American boundary west of Palomas today, according to reports received here.

Salazar was taken at once to Columbus, N. M. An agent of the department of justice will leave here tonight to receive him.

Agents of the department of justice regard the capture of Salazar as an important incident in the campaign they have under way to prevent the inauguration of a new revolution in Mexico. By many of them it is believed that Salazar was the active agent in Mexico for General Victoriano Huerta, now held at Fort Bliss.

Salazar's arrest was a surprise. Salazar had been freed under the charge of violation of neutrality and re-arrested and held on the charge of perjury.

Salazar became prominent during the revolt against Madero, headed by Pascual Orozco. Afterwards he was made an officer in Huerta's army and participated in the action about Ojinaga. Since his escape at Albuquerque several months ago he had been at the head of a small force in Chihuahua and Sonora and agents who have been working on the border believe he has been acting as an organizer of men intended to be used in the alleged new movement.

I. & G. N. Intangible Asset Case Dismissed

Houston, July 20.—Judge W. T. Burns in the federal court today dismissed the I. & G. N. railroad's now famous intangible tax suit directed at the state tax board. Railroad officials had denied that the road had any "intangible" value subject to taxation. The suit involved approximately $100,000 in taxes.

Judge Burns held that the only way the railroad could get relief was to file a separate suit in each of the 38 counties through which the tracks run. He held that the value of the assessment, $10,743,223, is a matter for the state courts to decide.

Libel Suit Goes to Trial at Gatesville

Gatesville, Texas, July 20.—The case of M. R. Jones vs. E. A. Varner and J. H. Abney, alleged to be owners and editors of the Lampasas Daily and Weekly Leader, for the sum of $10,000 libel, went to trial today in the district court.

Jones alleges they printed and circulated in their papers: "In district court of Coke county M. R. Jones was convicted of arson and given five years in penitentiary. Jones formerly lived here (Lampasas)." The case is being stubbornly fought.

Two Killed in Wreck.
Dalhart, Texas, July 20.—A 200-foot plunge into a gulch at Indianole, near here, today killed three men and smashed an engine and ten loaded freight cars to bits. The freight was on the El Paso and Southern railroad. It ran through a bridge over the gulch. The dead are Engineer Brickley, Fireman Pryor and Head Brakeman Kirley, all of Tucuman, N. M.

WILGANSKI CASE IN HANDS OF JURY

THE STATE CLOSES ITS CASE AND ADJOURNS AT 6 O'CLOCK UNTIL TODAY.

Announced Not Possible to Reach Verdict During Night—Hundreds Are Waiting When Court Closes.

Marlin, July 20.—At 4:30 this afternoon the state closed its case against Kate Wilganski with a masterful arraignment by Hon. Tom Connally and the jury took the case.

Court adjourned at 6 o'clock tonight after the jury had advised that there would be little chance of reaching a verdict before morning. Hundreds were awaiting the verdict.

The court room throughout the day was crowded with people milling in and out as the seven attorneys on the trial made their speeches. There is little indication how the verdict may result, as there are many who declare it impossible to convict, while just as many other state just as positively that there has been raised a great element of doubt even as to whether Wilganski is really dead. After the jury took the case many hung about in hopes a quick verdict would be rendered.

Marlin People Escape From Mexico.
Marlin, July 20.—John Ogden and George Rhodes, accompanied by their families, have reached Marlin from Mexico. George Ogden, wife, son Leonard, daughter and son-in-law, Fred Salazar, went to Houston from Valle Junction. There were seventeen in the party that made their escape from the ranch 60 miles from Tampico, right in between the Villa and Carranza factions in the Mexican civil war. Walter Ogden and family came out on a military train two weeks ahead of the others.

John Ogden, in speaking of matters on the ranch during the last few months, says the Mexicans took everything they had, mules, horses, and about 400 head of cattle, confiscating their food and provisions. They were then repeatedly threatened with death if they did not leave, but he says he does not yet think they intended to kill them, but simply wanted to terrorize them into leaving.

The Villa faction put Walter Ogden and his brother-in-law in jail for eight days, claiming they sympathized with the Carranza faction, and each day telling them they had decided to wait to hang them until the following day. While they were subject to depredations from men of both factions, the Villa men were the worst of it. The Villa men burned all the ranch houses owned by Carranza generals around the ranch and said they heard their planes had been burned since they left.

The Ogdens owned a large prosperous ranch, raising in addition to cattle and milch cows and dairy products, coffee, cane, bananas, peaches and fruit. In leaving they brought nothing but a lot of worthless Carranza and Villa money.

Perry Farmers' Institute Elects.
Marlin, June 20.—The Perry Farmers' institute has elected the following delegates to attend the state meeting at Austin this week: T. W. Hander, H. Ludwig and Walter Ludwig.

Merchants' Association Meets.
Marlin, July 20.—The Retail Merchants' association of Marlin met this afternoon at 3 o'clock with the new president, J. O. Simpson, presiding. Several matters of interest to the members were considered and a good attendance was noted.

Col. Bartlett Returns.
Marlin, July 20.—Col. C. J. Bartlett has returned home from San Diego, Cal., where he was a special personal representative of Governor Ferguson. He reports the big shows on the coast to be of immense value to all who visit them.

To Consider Bond Matter.
Marlin, July 20.—Mayor E. W. Rounds is calling a special meeting of the city council for Thursday in order to have a thorough consideration of the city bond proposition, as the bonds voted have been turned down by the attorney general, who advises that had everything been legally done $40,000 more could have been issued. Several ways of bringing about the desired end have been proposed, but it is generally thought the city will first adopt a new charter such as will meet the requirements of the law as outlined by the attorney general and then proceed to vote for every cent of bonds the bonding capacity will permit, as the people of Marlin are all anxious to get all the civic improvements possible.

Wacoans at Marlin.
Marlin, July 20.—The following Waco people are registered at the Marlin hotels: G. H. Walnes, T. C. Waters, Tom Hewitt, J. H. Blackwell.

J. Lee Davis of Waco was in the city today en route to Calvert.

Runge Man Killed.
Big Springs, July 20.—W. E. Knox of Runge, Tex., was killed here today when his automobile overturned while going at rapid speed around a sharp curve at the edge of town. Knox's sister, Mrs. Knight of Ballinger, and Mrs. L. W. Franks of Beville, the other occupants of the automobile, were bruised. Mrs. Knight was badly hurt. The party was en route to Lockney, Ford county, Texas.

MRS. W. D. RONDTHALER TO HAVE LUNCHEON QUESTS

As one of the special luncheons for the Woman's Day assembly at the Huaco club Mrs. W. D. Rondthaler will entertain Mrs. C. C. McCulloch from Washington City, Mrs. Scott Key from Haskell, Miss Lucybel Carter from Beaumont, Mrs. Harry Hind and Miss Ruby Garland.

DICK SMITH CLUB HOST FOR CAMP DINNER

Following the enjoyable camp and the round of gayety after coming into the city, it remained for Dick Smith to be the au revoir host. By invitation, Mr. Smith was host at a splendid luncheon in the summer dining room of the Huaco. The decorative feature gave the cooling effect of green and white. It was the last coming together of the party who had enjoyed the last United States trip, for in a measure, an au revoir until the good old summer time comes again. Following the dinner, the party enjoyed a dip into the Natatorium pool.

MISS ESSE FORRESTER HAS UNIQUE SOUVENIR

Following her recent trip into Kansas City, Miss Esse Forrester made an interesting find. Miss Forrester, trained in sketching as she is, takes her pad and pencil wherever she goes. This chance to be fortunate in the last trip, for in a measure, an au revoir until the good old summer time comes again. Following the dinner, the party enjoyed a dip into the Natatorium pool.

CAMPING PARTY FORMED FOR OCEAN ON THURSDAY

And still they come and still the wonder grows, that one small town can carry all that go. This means, on Thursday yet another party of campers is off. This will be for the most part a party of women and will find a camp for two weeks, and perhaps longer. Men are invited as visitors, those remaining through the camp being Robert Rogers and Dr. C. T. Child with Robert Stotter. In this party are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rogers, Dr. and Mrs. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Stotter, with the Misses Anna Dilworth, Ruby Rogers, Robert Rogers, Marian Dilworth, Elaine Speed, Callie Pearson, Florrie Neale Cooper.

REBECCA SPARKS HOME HAS PARK PICNIC

With Miss Ethel Jackson special hostess, the household of the Rebecca Sparks Home, together with a half dozen by special invitation, enjoyed a moonlight picnic out at Cameron park during Monday evening. This was also a home welcome to Miss Edwards, the public health nurse who has just returned from her vacation trip to California. One of the interesting features of the picnic was the relation by Miss Edwards of the picnic to the experiences encountered. Old fashioned games were enjoyed, but these were not more than the cool of the evening in the always cool park. About twenty were thus the pleased guests of Miss Jackson.

WOMAN'S DAY AT HUACO CLUB, MORNING BRIDGE AND TEA

The special hostesses for this Thursday at the Huaco club are Mrs. W. D. Rondthaler and Mrs. John Dockery. They have decided that the day will be for the morning bridge and afternoon tea. The plan for the purchase of the prizes at the last game will prevail; however, there will be no personal announcement of the prizes. Any who see this notice are invited to be present, join the game, and to have guests if desired. The game will be called at half after 10 o'clock.

At 5 o'clock, there will be tea on the veranda. Those who do not find the morning hour convenient are invited to be present for tea.

MRS. JOSEPH G. WREN HAS WONDERFUL TRIP

"Worth the trip ten thousand times" is Mrs. Joseph Wren's comment upon her attendance at the National Federation of Musical Clubs in Los Angeles. Mrs. Wren was the personal guest of two former Waco girls, the Misses Maud and Ruth Wood, now both matrons in their own homes. The latter has the distinction of living amid the scenes depicted in that stirring novel, "The Winning of Barbara Worth." While she enjoyed the sights of California and the wonders of the Exposition, Mrs. Wren was more absorbed in the musical atmosphere which she entered. She reports the program during the musical convention as introducing musical discussion rather than musical performance. From this, she received many ideas which will be presented to the Euterpean club in their work this winter. Each afternoon found the matrons, Mrs. Wren was in constant attendance. She reports the orchestral work, and the interest in American composers directing their own compositions, something well worth attention, but the voice of the nation was not to that standard. One unique feature was the appearance of Cadman, a composer, but more widely known as resurrecting Indian folk lore. He discovered such as will meet the requirements of the law as outlined by the attorney general and then proceed to vote for every cent of bonds the bonding capacity will permit, as the people of Marlin are all anxious to get all the civic improvements possible.

NOTES COME FROM VENICE TO INTEREST THE TOURIST

Former tourists to Europe, and there are many in this city, are reading with interest recent notes from this wonder city of the world. Any who have read William Dean Howells' "Venetian Days" as well as those who have understood references in Browning's "Old Pictures in Florence" are ready to know how lingering is the hatred of the Venetians for the Austrian. It is surmised, that with these impressions not yet effaced, no city of Italy so much resents the Austrian complication as do the Venetians. It was with them that the Austrians lingered longest, and it was from Venice that these same Austrians took treasure. No sooner the Italian armies advanced to the front with the allies than Venice began to tremble. The personal interest to us is the fact that B. H. Carroll, the consul and the former Wacoan, at once sent his wife back to Texas, to await future events. Very soon after Italy declared for war, it was found that the Austrians were employing the carrier pigeon for secret message, since many Austrians still resided in Venice. This led to order that all carrier pigeons be shot. Not a Wacoan who has put foot in Venice but who has not had the experience of the fabled pigeons on Saint Mark's square. These pigeons, unloved as they can be, the beggars play trade by sitting all day with penny packages of grain which the children buy "to feed the pigeons." The birds flutter around, alight on head, extended arm, anywhere with the merest stranger. They seem to be conscious that they are protected by the city government. One does not feel as though she had been to Venice unless she has purchased some of the bronze pigeons from the art shops, or if she has not patronized the camera man who is always there to catch the moment when the stranger is covered with the pigeons. The other day the beggars in a body called upon the powers that be to have the pigeons shot. They had gone abroad that the pigeons were to be employed by the Austrians to convey state secrets, were to be shot. The plea was that the beggars themselves would share their loss with the birds no longer fed by the tourists. The fate of the pigeons still hangs in the balance; it all remains upon the conduct of Austria.

At the present time, the great bronze horses which stand championing forever over Saint Mark's main door have disappeared. It seems that whenever war is in the balance these same horses are involved. It was they which the great Napoleon took as one of his greatest war trophies to France. They stood over the arch in the Tuilleries Garden until the peace treaty forced their return to Venice. Now they are again in jeopardy. The Venetians have removed the horses, covered them snugly, placed them in some unknown place, and again fortified by surrounding popular resort, and will find a camp for two weeks, and perhaps longer. Men are invited as visitors, those remaining through the camp being Robert Rogers and Dr. C. T. Child with Robert Stotter. In this party are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rogers, Dr. and Mrs. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Stotter, with the Misses Anna Dilworth, Ruby Rogers, Robert Rogers, Marian Dilworth, Elaine Speed, Callie Pearson, Florrie Neale Cooper.

Society Notes

While it is not exactly autumn, it makes us feel cooler just to see the leaves dropping.

During the absence of Mrs. Thomas Dockery, Mrs. George D. Streeter will be matron of the Dockery home, street place.

It is the present intention of Mrs. J. W. Whitworth, West Washington, to spend August and September with her relatives in Kentucky.

When we see the Charlotte Walker files we must recall that the leading lady is a Texas woman. She went on the stage from Galveston.

Having finished their visit in Hubbard, the Misses Adrienne and Abigail Wilks have continued their vacation absence to Big Springs.

It is no infrequent sight these cool hours of morning to find the society girls out on the golf links. And these are certainly in the right place.

The Misses Marie and Willie Beaumont on Tuesday left Houston for the remainder of the summer with their sister, Mrs. Beatrice Beaumont Doyler, in Denver.

Up in Newport, society is preparing for a grand ball where sport costumes will prevail. We will wager in advance the girl in the bathing suit will be the most numerous.

Congratulations are now in order for Mrs. Abe Berlowitz, winner of the Hippodrome, as well as of the friends who supported Mrs. Berlowitz.

It is now definite that Mrs. R. J. Parsons, who has been absent a number of months, returns to be matron of the social on Monday evening, the remainder of the first of August.

An overland party left the city on Tuesday. In this were, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bryan of Lometa, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Bryan, Miss Beryl Bryan, Miss Maydelle Bryan of Hubbard, with Charles Whitman.

Because the women are wearing larger hats than in the spring is not evidence that large hats are to prevail during the winter, it is only that the hat-brim extends as protection from the summer sun.

Miss Lora Dee Kyger has been very much complimented upon the ease and the skill with which her advanced piano numbers were rendered during her recital on Monday evening. Miss Kyger has pronounced talent.

It is the present intention of Mrs. Richard Munroe to be at home from Marlin with the first week in August. This means the reopening of the Munroe cottages on Provident Heights, after being closed for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Holloway Smith, who have been sojourners on the coast for three weeks, have now gone from Ingleside into Corpus Christi for the remainder of their absence. They are expected home with the first of August.

One of the last signs of encouragement to the Humane Society was the appearance of a huckster with sheep cover over his chicken coop. Just supposing no woman would buy unless the same protection was given, what a relief would come to the poor panting flocks.

It is not the travesty on the origin of things to see the boudoir cap out automobile? The idea of this jaunty little dress accessory is to hide the hair when in process of waving, something to make the hair look attractive at an otherwise unattractive time. Really, the boudoir cap is not designed for the automobile down town.

Before the close of this week, Mrs. Frederick Ely will be up from Austin, matron for a month. On the A. H. Newman home, Mrs. Newman is leaving on Saturday for Chicago where she joins her son for their summer home on Georgian Bay. From there, Mrs. Newman visits Mr. and Mrs. Albert She will be absent until early September.

If our parking is not satisfactory, why not look about as we drive and see what others have done? This street parking is the something new in our civic work, and something that has proved a disappointment to many of our women who have pride in their home. All sorts of devices are evident, and we must come to a card of invitation the hour when you expect a guest to depart? We rather think not. Upon the invitation for the come and go affair, this is pre-eminently proper, for it tells the guests the latest hour at which they may call. But, for the evening affair, if form of city cards is noted, it will be found that it is always "9 o'clock," or the special hour of assembling, but never the hour for taking leave.

Notice to Subscribers.
Delivery routes in the city of Waco are in the hands of independent carriers, who buy their papers at wholesale prices. Subscription accounts are due them, not the Waco Morning News. They are under heavy bond, not only to give the best delivery service, but to pay for their papers each month. Their remuneration is the difference between the wholesale price and the retail price which they receive from subscribers. This margin of profit is such that they cannot afford to extend credit, except monthly by month. They are not allowed to accept orders for delivery against, delivering the paper to anyone who does not pay in accordance with the above subscription terms. These carriers are all earnest, hard working men and they will appreciate any courtesy shown them.

The Morning News should be delivered throughout the city of Waco by 6:30 a. m., and subscribers failing to receive the paper at that time will confer a favor by phoning the Circulation Department, both phones 1132, and a copy will be sent by special messenger.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of the Morning News will be gladly corrected upon its being brought to the attention of the management.

FOLLOWING THE LIGHT AND REMAINING IN DARKNESS.

Discussing this paper's support of the pending constitutional amendment which would permit absentee voting and require that only bona fide citizens of the United States be permitted to exercise the right of suffrage in this state, Editor Robinson of the Times-Herald declares, "Editor Burkhalter has seen a great light," referring to the fact that he originally opposed a portion of the amendment but later came to believe that it was deserving of support.

Fortunately, there are many differences in the mental make-up of Brother Robinson and the editor of the Morning News, though we are persuaded that the sentence we have just quoted from our neighbor points out the greatest of those differences, namely, that a great light serves only to blind him whereas it enables the editor of the Morning News to more accurately guide his footsteps and his thoughts, a great light in this case, as in so many others, symbolizing the truth, or to be more charitable, new truth.

The editor of the Morning News has never been afraid of the truth, no matter if it does cause him to revise his opinions, privately or publicly expressed. He weighs issues upon their merits and not in their relation to a particular political theory of a century or more ago. He believes in accepting the truths of the past, not as final and conclusive, but as a help in arriving at the fuller truths of today. He can no more conceive of everything being good because it is old than of everything being bad because it is new. Taking from past experience those lessons that will better enable him to solve the problems of today, he faces the future, rather than the past, and will determine his course from a consideration of right and expediency as the light he already has and such additional light as he may obtain as he goes along may enable him to judge. He has no hide-bound theories that will cause him to accept that which he believes to be bad and reject that which he believes to be good simply because those things comply or fail to comply with those theories from which there can be no variableness or shadow of turning.

Truth is eternal but no man has ever discovered the sum of it and no man ever will. But we are gradually learning more and more of it as the world grows older and we are recreant to our opportunities if we fail to keep abreast with it, or as nearly abreast of it as we may. The editor of the Morning News is constantly in search of the truth, whether it be old or new, and he has no prejudice against a "great light," no matter if he does have to revise his opinions and judgments in order to make them conform to that truth. He would be false to himself and the constituency he serves if in the light of new truth he did not modify his views and judgments accordingly.

So much by way of a general principle.

Continuing, Brother Robinson says: "While Editor Burkhalter doesn't say so outright, what has moved him to this changed attitude is the belief that by taking away the declaration of intention and coming under the full citizenship requirement of the federal naturalization law before one can vote, there will be marked reduction in the number of anti-prohibitionists, and that prospect, of course, greatly delights the heart of Editor Burkhalter. "In other words, balancing the chance of fraud on the part of the absentee voter and the certainty of reducing the anti-prohibition strength by striking out the aliens who have not acquired full citizenship, Editor Burkhalter sees the better prospect for the cause dearest to his heart in bringing down the latter side of the scales, and so he publicly announces a reversal of his position."

Brother Robinson is wrong again and if any one should be as careless in quoting Thomas Jefferson as our neighbor is in drawing inferences in regard to the editor of this paper our brother of the Times-Herald would have a nervous chill. The editor of the Morning News knows full well and has known all along that many persons who have been voting in Texas heretofore would be denied that privilege if the amendment were adopted, and it is doubtless true that these persons vote against prohibition, but if Brother Robinson has been reading this paper as closely as he professes he will recall that we have always favored that portion of the amendment. But our favoring that portion of the amendment has not been based upon the prohibition issue but upon a question of right. It is our contention that a man who is not able to meet the test of citizenship imposed by the United States government ought not to be permitted to exercise the privileges of citizenship in Texas. But under the latest federal statute upon this subject any resident of the United States who had expressed a determination to take out full citizenship in the United States prior to Sept. 23, 1906, can become a citizen at any time without having to sign his name in writing or speak the English language, those tests that are so objectionable to our neighbor. This would include the majority of the high-class Germans, Bohemians and other foreigners in Texas. The virtue of that portion of the proposed amendment lies in that it would preclude the voting of worthless, irresponsible Mexicans who are not citizens and who never expect to be. They can be brought across the Rio Grande one day and voted the next, under the present system, and we challenge Brother Robinson to defend such a procedure.

We were persuaded at first that the evils of absentee voting might overbalance the good that would come from it, but after a study of the operation of similar laws in other states, the assurance of legal counsel that stronger safeguards than those proposed in the original amendment could be thrown about such a law in this state, and a fuller study of the number of good persons disfranchised by the fact that they were unavoidably detained from home on election days, we came to the deliberate conclusion that more good would be accomplished than we had anticipated and that the evils resulting from such a law could be minimized.

Except from the fact that Brother Robinson expresses some suspicion of the motives which actuated the editor of the Morning News in revising his opinion on the matter, it was unnecessary to make the statement that our change of view on the question was reached upon our own responsibility, without any suggestions from the directors, stockholders or subscribers of the Morning News, or consultation with any one else and without reference to the prohibition issue. This is said in no boasting spirit but merely to keep the Times-Herald and the Fort Worth Record straight.

"The Waco Morning News, statewide prohibition organ, has changed front in order to keep up with Dr. Barton," says the Fort Worth Record. You have two new guesses coming, Brother Fitzgerald. In the first place, the Waco Morning News is a newspaper and not an organ, though it champions the cause of statewide prohibition. In the second place, this paper announced its support of the provision for absentee voting before Dr. Barton did and without consulting Dr. Barton or any one else. The Waco Morning News does its own thinking and we had hoped that the esteemed Fort Worth Record did as much, too, but from this unwarranted conclusion upon its part we are led to believe that sometimes it does not think at all.

HIPPODROME.

"The Fox Woman."

"The Fox Woman," Mutual Masterpiece in four parts, which is showing at the Hippodrome today and tomorrow, is adapted from a scenario by John Luther Long, who is famed far and wide as the author of "Madam Butterfly." This production afforded two film stars lessons in making love. Miss Teddy Sampson and Elmer Clifton, Mutual stars who were cast as lovers in the new Mutual Masterpiece, found that they did not know how to make love in the Japanese style. American style—oh rather! But this was different again, so they spent several days, it is claimed, in the Japanese section of Los Angeles and observed the Japanese way of showing affection. One of the unusual elements of Japanese love-making is that the Japanese lovers never kiss. They just simply rub the sides of their cheeks together. This they learned and lots more, and they have made effective use of their knowledge in the picture.

Miss Sampson has the sympathetic part of the little Japanese wife who is deserted by her husband. Mr. Clifton plays her husband. The part of "The Fox Woman," the Japanese name for a vampire, is undertaken by Signe Auen, the beautiful as well as versatile player. Signe Auen playing the title role in "The Fox Woman" had imported twelve new gowns in the latest Japanese material in order to dress the role of the Vampire in this intensely dramatic Japanese play. Miss Auen had to engage a special Japanese tailor to assist her in her hurried changes of costume, it being found that the regular studio maid was not apt or quick enough to be of assistance with the strange costumes in "The Fox Woman," which was personally directed by David Griffith.

Miss Auen steals the love of a Japanese artist from his devoted little wife, the part charmingly embodied by Teddy Sampson. Elmer Clifton is the artist.

"The Mating."

In the new Thomas H. Ince feature, "The Mating," a Mutual Masterpiece programed at the Hippodrome Friday and Saturday, Bessie Barriscale's wonderful big brown eyes and her histrionic ability make her part conspicuous. She plays a little country girl who goes away to boarding school only to find herself without chums among the other girls and a wall-flower at receptions because she is unable to shed her chrysalis. "Bullet Dick" Ames, a college football player, is Doris's hero. Doris writes herself a letter purporting to come from "Bullet Dick" and purposely drops it. The other girls find it, but don't believe it. So they arrange to humiliate Doris by introducing her to her hero at a reception.

Dick, however, learns of the plot in advance, and foils it by acting as if he and Doris were old friends. Later he proposed and is accepted. The other girls' scornful treatment of Doris at pajama parties and receptions and her grief thereat are very well done. Doris' grief seems very real. One of the things is the overwhelming illness of the sportsman who simply would smoke a cigar at a party.

Lewis J. Cody is Dick. Enid Markkey and Marguerite are the leaders among the snobbish girls. Miss Thompson plays Dick's sister. Walter Whitman is Doris' father and Ida Lewis is the principal of the school. G. Gardner Sullivan wrote the scenario.

REX TODAY.

"The Cup of Life."

The story of this five-part Mutual Masterpiece is as follows: As Helen Fiske felt Sam Dugan's rough hand close clumsily over her little paw with a shuddering cry, Miss Dugan's cry was concentrated all the girl's antipathy for the coarseness, the poverty and brutality of her surroundings. Cogan's Paradise, Dugan's fingers and fingers, and fingers of his machinery he worked all day, were to her as the clutch of the environment where fate had fung her. In a panic of repulsion Helen turned on him.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself," she exclaimed angrily, "to come to see a girl and your hands like that. Go away—don't ever come near me again."

Flabbergasted the young man stumbled out of the flat. In the dingy parlor Ruth Fiske and John Ward were startled from their love-making by the slamming of the door after Sam and by the apparition of Helen. She stood before them, quivering from head to foot. Her dark eyes flamed through a storm of tears. Ruth sprang forward and gathered her sister in her arms. How strange Helen was these days. If she but knew how to make her happy.

Late that night when Ruth confided her engagement to John, her artless joy was met by an hysterical outburst. Her sister frantically pleaded with her never to marry a poor man. She dragged Ruth from window to window of the tiny hiding place, her look into the squalid rooms of their neighbors. Even at that hour they could see women stooping over steam-traps, or straining their sight above dark piece-work for the sweat shop. Many children, big-eyed with hunger and lack of sleep, sprawled wretchedly on the floor. Sordid husbands slunk in and out. Above the roar of the nearby elevated rose angry shouts, growling and imprecation.

"Misery, brutality, slavery," cried Helen. "That is all those women know. Oh Ruth, think—think before it is too late." Clinging to one another the sisters wept uncontrollably.

When Ruth found herself alone the blurred gleam of the ring John had put on her finger smote her tear-blinded gaze. Passionately she kissed the priceless bauble. "But I love him. I love him. I love him," she told herself in choking whisper.

Ruth's wedding day marked the parting of the ways. The tragic little figure resting listless on the park bench, brought Dick Ralston to a sudden standstill before a bowed head with masses of tawny, rippling hair. He murmured something, and velvety dark eyes, moist with recent tears, shot their glance up at him. Helen's heart leaped like a flame. One had come to her—out of that other world. The Helen she was meant to be—the girl who believed in her prerogative to live and be happy—spoke straight to this debonair stranger, in fluttering pulses, the surge of the blood to her cheek, the upward sweep of appealing lashes. But this was no girl of his admiration, suddenly she knew. This way lay escape. And this way, she believed, was happiness.

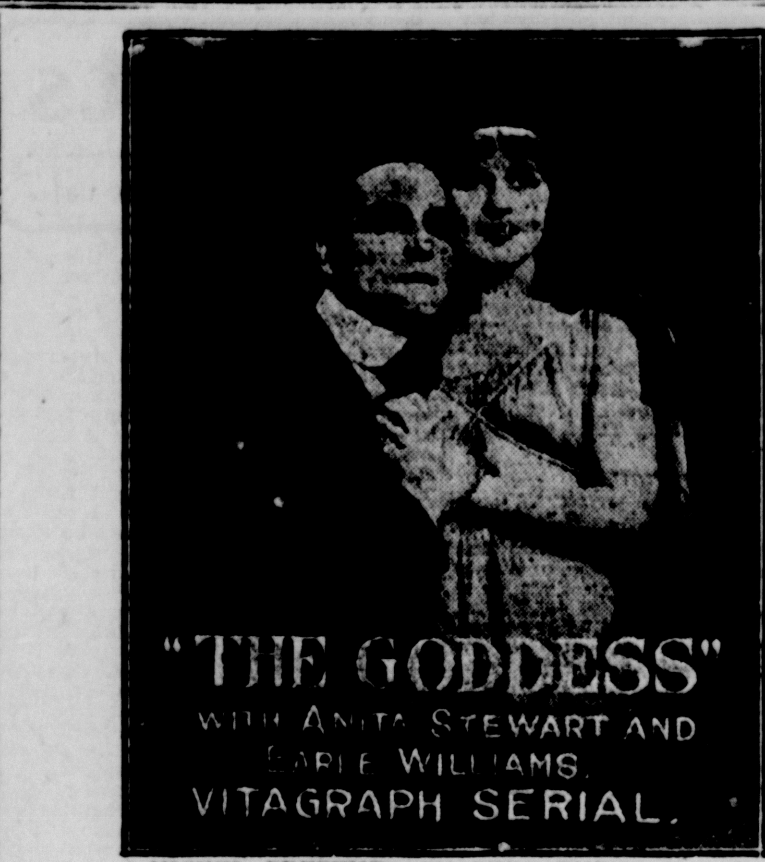

That night, tossing sleepless, Helen weighed the value of this world, as she understood them. At last, in an ecstasy she whispered, "I cannot let me pass by. Life—beautiful life. Oh it can be so beautiful."

At first Helen's new life filled her with unalloyed delight and wonder. Its comforts and luxuries formed such a contrast to her former drab existence. Ralston had magnificent notions of keeping a beautiful woman. He stopped at nothing to give her pleasure. But, she was not a girl of his hardness began to creep into her understanding. In the beginning she had shrunk from Jack Jordan. But, later, she discovered things different. Many times richer than Ralston, Jordan was far more to be desired. So Helen sold herself to the highest bidder.

After that came Europe—Paris—the round of the watering places, the agony of finding herself, for the first time, an abandoned woman. She ingratiated herself with new lovers. Her beauty was passing—its substitute becoming all too apparent. Six years later, in a burst of derisive laughter, everything was ended. "Marry you?" "You?" the man had echoed with caustic mirth.

Helen came back to New York. She found Ruth in the suburbs, happy in the love of husband and children. Desperately Helen laid siege to her old friend, but this was no girl of her. She had drained the cup of life to the dregs. How she raised to her lips a less bitter portion. It was the chance of death.

Bessie Barriscale plays Helen Fiske. Enid Markkey plays Ruth, and Frank Borzage, Louise Glaum, J. Barney Sherry, Arthur Maude, Harry Keenan and Jerome Storm appear in the cast of "The Cup of Life," which will be the attraction at the Rex theatre Thursday.

"THE GODDESS" WITH ANITA STEWART AND EARLE WILLIAMS. VITAGRAPH SERIAL.

NICKEL PRESENTS CHAPTER THREE TODAY.

ter. Laughing, Tom helped her out and placed her alongside the fire, where she sat shivering. Tom suggested the advisability of removing her dress and drying it, when to his horror, he had scarcely finished speaking, before Celestia had slipped the robe from her shoulders and was on the point of letting it drop to the ground. "Hold on! Don't," he cried, for he had realized that underneath that robe was nothing but—Celestia. He then gave her his buffalo robe. In the evening they sat for a long time by the shore watching the stars grow brighter and brighter, and the moon rise, dimmer and dimmer. They were indeed happy.

At the Nickel. "The Goddess," started last week with chapters one and two, presenting Earle Williams and Anita Stewart as the stars, produced by Ralph Ince, story written by Gouverneur Morris. The Nickel will today present chapter three of the most wonderful and beautiful continued photoplay ever created by man. The idea is new, novel, thrilling, and exceedingly high class. Produced and pictured in such a way that should you have missed the initial chapters you will readily catch the drift of the story. Go with the crowd, for all Waco will be going to see Williams and Stewart in their supreme effort.

ORPHEUM TONIGHT. "The High Road." The story of the play is as follows: Mary Page, after having lived for some time with Allen Wilson as his mistress, suddenly realizes the offense she has committed against society and decides to leave him. She writes him a letter telling of her intentions but he returns before she can put her plans into action. While Wilson is unpacking his bags, wine is served but Mary refuses to drink any. Mr. Maddox, who has accompanied Wilson to his home, upbraids her for what he considers her parade of virtue and Mary slaps his face. Mr. Maddox then leaves the house. Mary tells Wilson she is going to leave him and he, for the first time realizing that she loves her, tries to dissuade her, but finally being convinced of her sincerity he allows her to depart.

Mary secures a position in a shirt-waist factory, not knowing that it is one owned by Maddox. Wilson learns of Mary's whereabouts and visits her hoping to induce her to return but she firmly refuses. Maddox, endeavoring to reduce expenses, cuts the girls' wages 20 per cent, and Mary, assuming the leadership, approaches the manager, Mr. Cochran, and threatens a strike.

Cochran then arranges a fake riot to discourage the girls. After the riot Cochran engages a number of thugs to intimidate the girls and when the police arrive the thugs attack them, thus creating the impression that the girls are anarchistic. Cochran's plan works out all right until one of the thugs shoots a policeman and is captured by Mary, who courageously holds him until the police arrive. At the station house he confesses that Cochran hired him to do the shooting.

The next day Mary visits the mayor of the town and pleads with him in behalf of the girls and discovers that the mayor is her old sweetheart whom she had refused to marry on account of her infatuation for Wilson. She tells him everything and he agrees to help her.

Maddox, learning of the mayor's sympathy for the girls, re-establishes the former wage scale and the girls return to work. That night a tremendous fire breaks out in the factory with tragic results, but the story ends happily with the joining of the mayor and Mary Page.

A WOMAN WITHOUT A HEART. Also Pathe News—5c & 10c Friday, Bessie Barriscale in "The Mating."

At the Nickel today.

"The Goddess," started last week with chapters one and two, presenting Earle Williams and Anita Stewart as the stars, produced by Ralph Ince, story written by Gouverneur Morris. The Nickel will today present chapter three of the most wonderful and beautiful continued photoplay ever created by man. The idea is new, novel, thrilling, and exceedingly high class. The story of the third chapter follows:

To rescue the girl was but the work of an instant. All that was to do next was a matter of some concern to Tom. He did not know what to make of her talk of "Heaven" now and then, and wished he had not taken her from the professor. He finally thought of turning her over to the proper authorities. Her utter lack of knowledge of ordinary matters puzzled Tom; she stepped into a pool of water and appeared amazed that it wet her.

Her skin, which Tom noticed was exceptionally fair as though unused to atmospheric conditions, became slightly sunburned and they repaired to Tom's cabin. Here Tom prepared a somewhat disappointing meal and gave Celestia a lotion for her sunburn.

Tom questioned her closely to learn her history, but she persisted in simply stating her name as "Celestia." Suddenly Tom heard the baying of dogs and noticed in the distance two bloodhounds and four men, one of them a bill-bloated Indian. Tom recognized the professor and he and Celestia hastened from the camp.

After deciding to hide in a small island out in the water, to throw the dogs off the scent, he rowed up and down several times.

Tom bagged a partridge and prepared the meal. Little coming on, he made a rough shelter for the girl and hid her retire.

In the meantime, the Indian by his keen sight, had noted Tom's arrival at the island, and late that evening, stripping himself naked, he swam across to the island and loosened the dug-out canoe which Tom had used in reaching the island.

Meanwhile, with Tom and Celestia all had gone well. The hut at the island proved to be in better condition than Tom anticipated. Tom hooked a fine trout and Celestia, in her anxiety and excitement fell in the wablefield will render "The Dear Old Girl," assisted by the chorus of sixty people, including some of the strongest voices ever heard on a local stage. Then there will be Lee Dillard, the eccentric dancer.

Little Miss Cleo Elkins of Denison, the child with a crown-up voice, co-traito, will be an added feature, as well as those charming petite baby dancers, Misses Goldye and Tillie Lazaris.

Miss Beulah Hammons and her juvenile dancers will entertain you in sure enough pickaninny stunts, with an electrical cotton moon, in beautiful and startling effect—another feature attraction.

Then there's the wedding of Mr. Buddie Burrows and "Miss Josephine Matthews, worth more than the price of admission to the whole show, impersonations by William Reese and Mrs. V. O. Lawa that will cause some rip-roaring laughter. Deacon Smith has enlisted Deacon Sanderford to assist in this society feature in Coonville. Murray Doyle will also do some clever impersonations. Among the other great feature attractions are Mrs. Grace Cutler and Miss Alma Webb as end women, who will spring something new and laughable all the way through. Smith and Lester in a Mat Keith stunt. Little Miss Zula Kincannon, a prime favorite, with a bird-like voice; Fred Shelton, with his crooning melody; Miss Lola Little, Waco's favorite contralto, in "My Melancholy Babe," J. E. Massey, bass profundo; Charlie Bailey, the sweet singer of Irish ballads.

The end men are Dillard, Doyle, Dyer, Lester, King and Bagby—all fun makers supreme.

The trained chorus of sixty voices, with Blaylock's orchestra and Blaylock's rendition of "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground," together with other attractions offers an array never before gathered for the approval of a Waco audience. Already tickets are going like hot cakes, the boys are going to take the girls and mothers are all wanting to go. Dad will there, too, also little brother and sister—the whole family will enjoy one continual round of entertainment and laughter from 8:15 to after 11. And it's Thursday night at the Majestic.

FENTRESS FALLS IN A WACO SWATFEST

SKIPPERS INDULGE IN FREE FOR ALL WITH BATS IN FOURTH INNING.

CRICHLAW CLEANS THE BASES

Finds Three on and, Although He Had Hit That Round, Gets a Home Run.

Waco beat Fentress. Yes—Fentress, the funny-lingling fellow of the Fort Worth Felines, the gent with the windmill delivery, a spit ball with a break bigger than a slump in wheat and with a hoodoo against Waco that has ever been on the job in full force up to yesterday.

Not only did the Skippers beat him, but they routed him, drove him to cover with their pile-driver wallop, made him look like a regular fellow and not a misanthrope, and in the big league. The score was 9 to 2. Jakey Atz attempted to turn the tide by shoving another veteran, Ashton, a former Navigator, in to pitch, who by all the superstitions of the game, for the very reason that he is an ex-Navy, should have made an easy thing of the Waco club. But while the dope bucket was being turned over, a complete job was made of it and good old Jack was clouted unmercifully in the round which was the big scene of the show, the fourth.

When the thing was over the Skippers had sent eight men across the plate in the fourth, Criclow had secured a single and a home run and James a double and a single, all mind you, in one round. Twelve men went to bat in that inning.

And while all this was going on the Buirs were flogging out the Pirates and Waco climbed a full game away from the rest of the league. O, it was one grand day. There wasn't much to the affair yesterday at Katy Park outside of the cyclone of blows by the Skippers. It seemed like the husky Navigators had gathered all those bludgeoned and spit ball was dazing. It was just one of those recoveries of batting eyes that never will be explained. The game came to an end as long as there was anything on bases to bring in they did it. They then started leading 'em all up again, but got tired in the effort and let it go at eight in the inning.

These James celebrated the day with four times up and four hits, two being crucial doubles. Markle wobbled a bit in the early innings, but succeeded in getting himself together in the pinches, and, added by good fielding, perfect again, he proved effective.

In the first inning he was loosed. Stow and Atz first up, were passed. Melver's infield out advanced them. Harper's out scored Stow.

Waco tied it up in the second. James doubled again the right field foul line. Jones, a second baseman, doubled. Wohleben doubled to center field, scoring James. Grubb lined out to Melver.

That Fourth Inning. Things rocked along well until the fourth, when things happened profusely. Criclow got himself on by dropping a swinging bunt down in front of the plate and it bounced over the pitcher's head. With the bases full, Grubb came to bat. Hardy ordered Ogle warmed up and told Reilly to hit for Markle. Grubb, however, doubled to right field, scoring James and Walters. So Hardy let Markle hit. He dropped a two-base hit against the fence but two feet inside the right-field line at the club house. Grubb got tangled on the situation and went only to third, but Markle fled out. Ashton went in the box for Fort Worth. Tanner hit one to Hill for a single and Grubb was held on third. Waco doubled to left field. Atz fled out. Melver bounced one over Tanner's head for a single, scoring Stow. Harper fled out. Hunter walked, but Hill lined out to Criclow.

WESTERN GOLFERS FALL. Cleveland, July 20.—When the smoke of battle has cleared away on the Mayfield golf course, the western field has fallen, among them H. K. B. Davis of San Antonio, Panama Pacific champion; Mason Phelps, Chicago, former western champion, and E. M. Byers, Pittsburg, former national champion. Phelps and Davis failed in the quality of play and were defeated in the first round of match play by Ned Sawyer of Chicago 5 and 4.

Game Pirate Rally Falls One Run Short

Galveston, July 20.—Getting away slowly, Galveston delayed its batting attack on Waco's delivery until the ninth inning and meantime the Houstonians had collected a four-run lead, which pulled them through winners by the margin of one score. The locals battled in three runs after two were out in the ninth, but Madden's pop foul with the tying run on base ended the game. Newman's fielding was a feature. The score: Houston—A. B. R. H. O. TIGERS CLAW WAY TO SECOND PLACE

DAUSS MAKES QUICK TAG AT PLATE AND PREVENTS RUNNER FROM SCORING.

White Sox Helpless Before Wonderful Pitching of Shore and Timely Hitting of Carrigan's Red Hose.

Detroit, July 20.—Detroit made it four straight from Philadelphia, winning a hard-fought game 6 to 5. In the ninth Steen weakened and filled the bases after two were out and one run had been scored. Dauss came to the rescue and pitched a low ball that bounded off Stange's glove and landed close to the plate. Kopf tried to score, but Dauss recovered the ball and tagged him out. The victory puts Detroit in second place.

Score—R. H. E. Detroit 100 010 000—13 10 1. Philadelphia 000 002 000—8 8 0. Detroit: Lapp, Steen, Dauss and Stange.

Boston 3, Chicago 0. Chicago, July 20.—Ernest Shore today held Chicago to two hits, one a scratch, and Boston shut out the locals. The defeat, with Detroit's victory, relegated the locals to third place in the pennant race. Boston's shutout and after two men were out Shore lined to left. Murphy misjudged the ball and it went for a double. Hooser followed with another double to right. Their other run was made in the fifth on singles by Speaker and Gardner, with a batter hit by a pitched ball coming between.

Score—R. H. E. Boston 020 010 000—3 10 1. Chicago 000 000 000—0 2 1. Shore and Thomas; Cloutie, Russell and Schalk.

Cleveland 5, Washington 4. Cleveland, July 20.—Cleveland defeated Washington in ten innings, thus breaking its losing streak. Walker outpitched Shaw, but errors let Washington take the lead in the seventh. Cleveland tied it up on three hits in the ninth and won in the tenth on Wambegans' single and O'Neill's double.

Score—R. H. E. Cleveland 102 000 001—15 14 3. Washington 000 000 200—4 6 2. Walker, Hagerman and O'Neill; Shaw, Boehling and Almsmith, Henry.

St. Louis 3, New York 2. St. Louis, July 20.—By a batting rally in the ninth St. Louis took today's game from New York and split honors in the four-game series. Singles by Walsh, Agnew and Wellman filled the bases for St. Louis in the ninth. Then Shotton hit to second and while Baerwald threw his out at first, Walsh brought in the winning run.

WHITE MAN KILLED BY NEGRO IN OWN OWN RESTAURANT

George Dillard Stabbed to Death and Frank Buchanan Wounded in Shoulder by Waiter in Richelieu Cafe. Angry Crowd of Men Threatens to Storm City Jail Where First Suspect Is Taken—Officers Later Secure Right Man and Take Him to Marlin.

Thousands of angry and excited men gathered at the city hall about 11 o'clock last night in an effort to get hold of the negro waiter, believed to be the one who stabbed George Dillard to death and injured Frank Buchanan in the Richelieu cafe, earlier in the night. The first negro captured turned out to be the wrong man, however, and after the crowd was persuaded of the fact, he was released.

Later on, the right negro, who gave his name as Frank Deckard, was captured, and Chief of Police Guy McNamara and Deputy Sheriff Fred N. Oliver took him to Marlin for safe keeping. The officers say that the negro admitted that he was the man who killed Dillard.

As near as can be learned, the trouble started in a saloon where it is said that Dillard slapped the negro. Mr. Dillard, Mrs. Dillard and Mr. Buchanan were eating at the Richelieu cafe when the tragedy occurred. The negro grabbed up a big butcher knife and drove it in Dillard's breast, evidently reaching the heart. He then slashed at Buchanan, cutting through his hat and wounding him on the right shoulder but not seriously, it is believed.

Dashing from the restaurant, the negro then ran out on Austin avenue, jumped into a buggy and drove off down South Eighth street. Dillard staggered from the front door, blood streaming down over his white shirt, white trousers and white shoes, until they were a flaming red most of the way. He staggered into Jurney's drug store, where Tom Travis and a traveling man tried to give him some assistance. Mrs. Dillard, wringing her hands in the meantime and beseeching them to "do something." But while Travis was unfastening Dillard's necktie, he expired.

The police patrol was called and Dillard's body was carried to the undertaking establishment of L. C. Puckett. By that time excited crowds had gathered at the drug store, in front of the restaurant and at the undertaking establishment, and practically no negroes were to be seen.

"He went out South Eighth," shouted a man, and a score of automobiles almost instantly were filled and the man hunt was on. Others swarmed down to the city hall and several hundred men were gathered there when the officers drove up with the first negro captured.

Shouts of "That's him" were heard on every side and it was with difficulty that the officers pushed their way through the crowd swarming after them. Several of the directors of the Y. M. B. L. were in talking to Chief McNamara at the time, and several of them expressed the wish that they were some place else. The negro was bundled into the chief's office, and after a few minutes McNamara came out and told the crowd that the right man had been captured.

Several in the crowd knew that the negro had worked in the Richelieu, and some of them were insistent that Chief Charles James Delavie Craven, Jack Ray and Frank Gray, the eye-witness, took him inside and locked him up.

Sheriff S. S. Fleming called all his deputies out. Constable Leslie Stegall and his deputies were also called, and soon all the officers were working together to capture the wanted man. The officers eluded the crowd, got their prisoner and took him away to safety.

Word of the killing spread rapidly and many negroes were given pretty bad scares before they could prove who they were. As the 1 o'clock interurban was coming in, the conductor saw a negro at Elm Mott, who he believed was the murderer. Stopping his car and backing wagon, and on the negro to come to him. Instead, the negro turned and ran, whereupon the conductor fired several shots at him, failing to hit him.

It was long after midnight before the crowds finally dispersed. Funeral arrangements had not been made last night. Mr. Dillard is a daughter of George Barnard, special officer, who is one of the best known police officers in Waco. Frank Buchanan is the son of Bob Buchanan, formerly night police chief. Dillard has driven an express wagon and worked in the automobile business here. Dillard is 27 years old, Buchanan 20.

Carrying Tobacco Away in Water Keg Leads to Arrest

Three charges of theft were filed against J. W. Garner and three charges of receiving stolen property against Charles Todar in the county court yesterday by County Attorney John B. McNamara and Assistant County Attorney D. C. Woods, following the arrest of Garner yesterday by City Detectives Sim Sheppard and Joe Rutland. Systematic theft of tobacco and snuff from the Rotan Grocery company is charged.

In a statement made before Mr. McNamara, Garner admitted that he had taken quantities of tobacco and snuff from the wholesale house in an empty keg when he went after water at the Watt well, and stated that he was working with Todar. This is denied by Todar, who says that Garner left some snuff with him but that he did not know where he got it and did not buy it.

Dallas Auto Party Goes Through Waco on Way to Galveston

About twenty carloads of Dallas autoists passed through Waco yesterday noon on the annual sociability run to Galveston. They stopped at the State House for luncheon and while there G. C. Cade, who was leading the party, talked with the Board of Commerce over the long distance telephone and arranged to stop there last night.

Mr. Cade said that the roads were good until the sand was struck at the far north line of McLennan county. That put the autoists back about forty-five minutes, he said. Col. W. W. Seely, Col. James Hays Quarles and other old-time friends of Mr. Cade had quite a long talk with him while the party was getting ready to go on.

Only about fifteen of the cars were here at lunch time, the others being strung out both ahead and behind the party. Dallas autoists were decorated with Dallas pennants of various colors and the arrival of the cars drew quite a large crowd around where they were stopping.

NEWSBOY DROWNS IN BRAZOS RIVER

LONGIE BARBEE MEETS TRAGIC DEATH WHILE ATTEMPTING TO SET TROT-LINE.

Body Recovered and Brought to Surface After Search of Four Hours.

When his fingers slipped from a tiny crevice in the central pier of the Cotton Belt bridge over the Brazos about 9 o'clock yesterday morning, Lonnie Barbee, a 15-year-old newsboy, sank into thirty feet of water about the pier and was drowned. The body was discovered by dragging the river about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Several men and boys had been working since notification was received of the drowning dragging the bed of the river with grappling hooks improvised from fishing tackle. Lonnie with his 10-year-old brother was the only support of a widowed mother, Mrs. Martha Woodward, who lives at 521 Webster street. The brother was in the curious crowd that gathered around as the body was brought to the surface, not knowing that the dead boy was his brother, as the boy who took the same time when he slipped into the river disappeared before giving his name or the name of the boy that was drowned.

Detective Hall and Mounted Officer Farquhar worked for four hours in the effort to recover the body. Working with them in the two boats when the grappling hooks trailing from both caught in the clothing of the boy at the same time, were four negroes, Robert Landrum, James Maladde, Charles McCune and Ed McCune. Blake Bryant, Claude Hall, Alfred Mitchell and two other white men who were helping the negroes, learned dove through the deep hole several times in the effort to find the body.

The body was carried by the police ambulance to the chapel of L. C. Puckett undertaker. Lonnie and another boy who newsboys said was Sonnie Black went to the river to fish early yesterday morning. They were setting a trot-line from the east bank of the river to a pile of drift about 100 feet away in the stream. Immediately around the drift the water was about four feet deep, but while working with the line, the current swept off on the down-stream side into deeper water. He was able to swim just enough to keep afloat, and the current carried him slowly down the stream toward the Cotton Belt bridge. His companion swam after him, trying to save him.

As the water swept the boys under the bridge Lonnie dug his fingers into a crevice in the concrete pier. After abouting to Lonnie to hold on until he could get a boat the other boy swam to the east shore and ran across the bridge for help. He met a negro man at the west end of the bridge. When the two ran back to the pier where Lonnie had been left clinging to the crevice, the hand reaching up out of the water had disappeared. The tug of the current as it breaks away from the pier had been too strong for the boy, weakened by exertion and fright.

The negro man ran to the city hall for help, and Chief McNamara detailed Detective Hall to search for the body, later sending Mounted Officer Jess Farquhar to help him. The two worked constantly, dragging lines with the assistance of the negroes, through the water a number of times. It was nearly 1 o'clock when the lines from the two boats caught at the same time and the body was raised to the surface.

Several hundred persons gathered on the stand bars in the river watching the efforts to recover the body in the crowd were several mothers, whose sons had not been seen for several hours. The body was found about 100 feet below the bridge.

The funeral will be conducted from the residence at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. J. M. Dawson officiating. Members of the Working Boys' club will attend in a body and the pallbearers will probably be selected from among them. The boys of this organization have ordered a floral offering sent to the residence.

Two Local Reviews of Lady Maccabees Will Consolidate

The two local reviews of the Woman's Benefit association of the Maccabees, formerly known as the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World, will consolidate this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the W. O. V. hall. Mrs. Sallie D. Botzler, district deputy will be the instituting officer.

Lillian M. Hollister Review No. 12 and Markey Review No. 36 are the names of the two organizations and all members of both reviews are urged to attend. The new organization will be known as Waco review and will be nearly 300 strong. This promises to be a very interesting meeting and at the conclusion of this consolidation Friday afternoon an initiation reception to new members will be held.

Notice to Contractors.

Sealed proposals will be received until Friday, 5 p. m., July 30th, 1915, by E. B. Cobb, secretary of the board of trustees of the public free schools of the city of Waco, Texas, for the furnishing of all labor and material required in the erection, on the site, corner of South Ninth and Oakwood streets, of a one-story and basement brick school building.

The right is reserved to accept any proposal or to reject all proposals. Plans and specifications are now on file at the office of Milton W. Scott & Co., Architects, Waco, Texas, and may be secured by depositing with them $20.00 to insure their return.

City Band Concerts Will Still Be Given Sunday Afternoons

Announcement that the time of the Sunday concerts in Cameron park would be changed from the afternoon to night was a bit premature, according to a statement made by City Commissioner W. H. Cockcroft yesterday. Mr. Cockcroft said that no decision to change the time of the concerts had been reached, and that it was probable that the time would remain as it is.

News that a chanicle was contemplated brought forth a number of protests from persons who wished to hear the concerts and also wished to go to church on Sunday nights, and it is in consideration of these that the time will remain the same for the present at least, said Mr. Cockcroft.
